"Learning and living. But they really are the same thing, aren't they?

There is no experience from which you can't learn something. When you stop learning you stop living in any vital and meaningful sense."

Eleanor Roosevelt

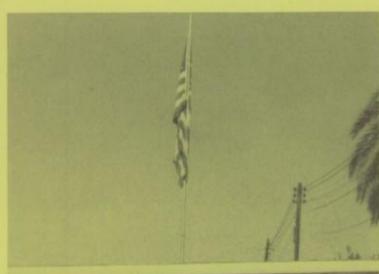

For four decades the students at Judson have expanded their horizons within this context. This is growth towards the recognition that Einstein posits in his space-light theory. His "mystery and meaning" of space and time is for each individual to probe within himself. All of us strive that each student at Judson will come to that realization.

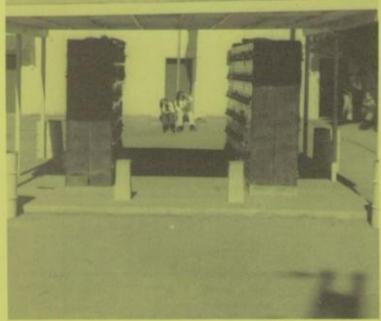

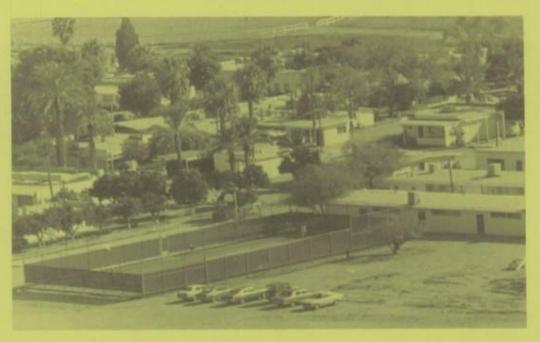

IUDSON SCHOOL

In the back of our minds there will always be certain places and times to remember. Memories of our yesterdays and tomorrows will always be with us, and we will cherish our friends and young loves of our school years. Tomorrow and today our memories will never pass away.

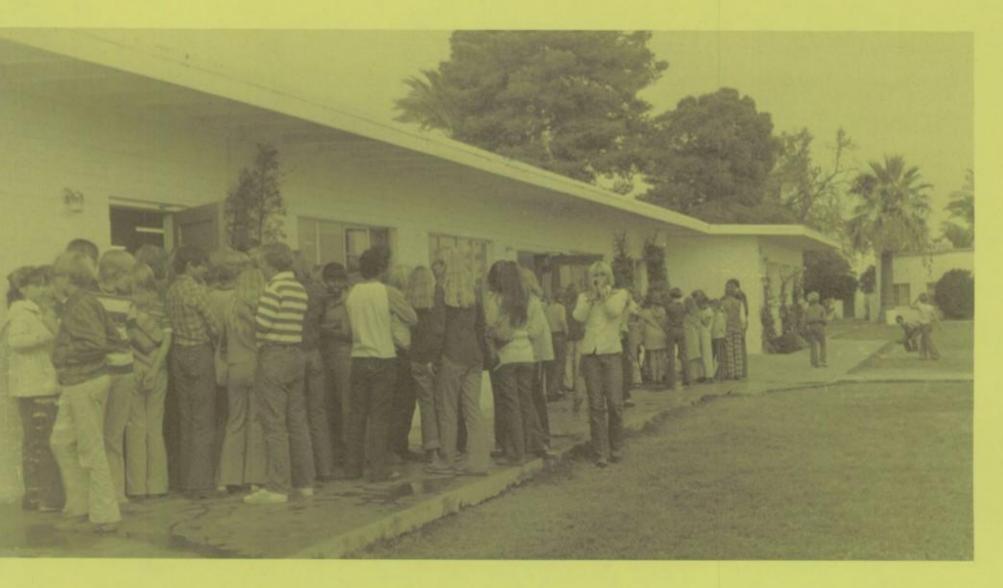

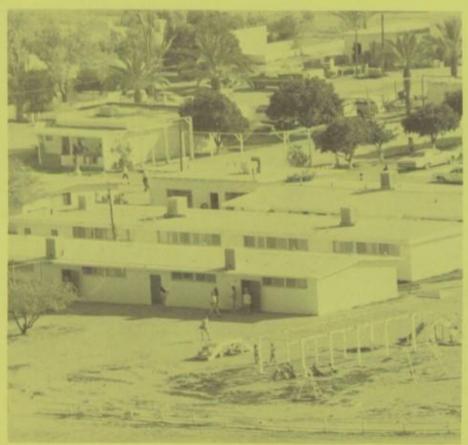

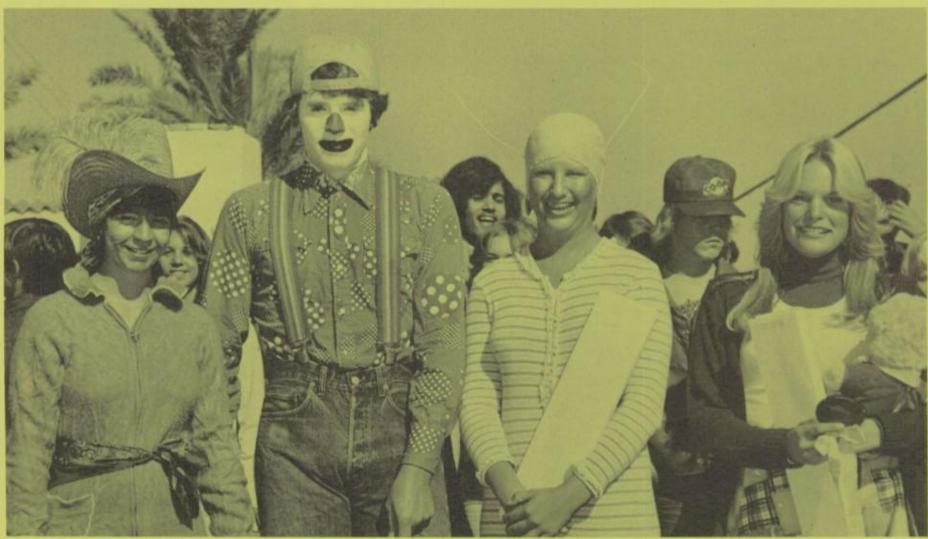

Places to be remembered

Halloween Fun

Halloween is a traditional festivity around Judson. Early in the week there was competition pumpkin carvings between dorms; Acacia and Cholla were winning dorms. Upper and lower school paraded around and competed for most original, funniest, prettiest, and ugliest costumes. Then lower school had a big Halloween party, playing games, eating candy, and going through the haunted house.

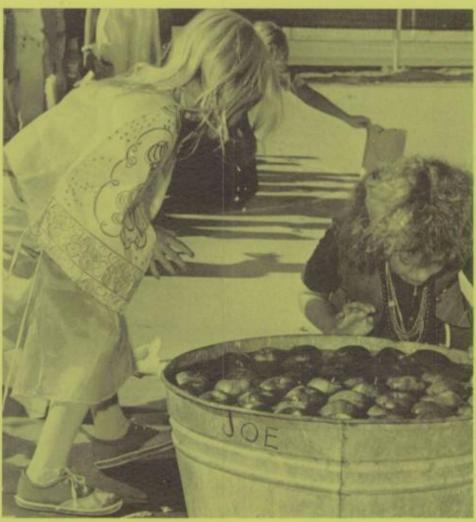

Margot Dillard, Fred Slyfield, Missy James, and Pam Lieu were Halloween contestant winners.

Following registration of students, a BBQ supper was held around the pool for students, parents, faculty, administration, and everyone connected with the school.

Administration leads way

The roots of the entire Judson organization lay in the administrative staff. These highly skilled, concerned and understanding men and women, all work toward a common goal. Each member acknowledged and agreed that their aim was to make Judson an even more outstanding and highly respected school than it already was.

Judson was a little world in itself, with the administration as the center of all activities. Keeping the internal affairs of the school running smoothly and aiding all the students in their personal and academic lives, were duties in which the staff was very proficient. It was through the much felt and appreciated efforts of these dedicated individuals that our school year was so successful.

They keep us healthy

Laura Ruth Lewis, Loretta Scarp, Ann Roberts, Betty Daly, Betty Ann Ramsey, and Myrtle Olsen.

Nurses in the Health Center were on duty 24 hours a day, ready for any student's minor accidents and illnesses. They made doctors appointments and gave medication for those who needed extra medical attention.

Maintenance is always busy

Many thanks to our skillful maintenance staff. Without these talented fix-it men, who knows how we would have survived. Whenever a problem arose we never feared, because the Judson maintenance was always here.

Housekeepers spruce up dorms

If not for the housekeeping women, the whole Judson campus would have turned into a desert. Rains and dust storms provided these hard working ladies with a very formidable job, but the dorms and classrooms were always clean.

Norene Melendez, Linda Moyer, Leah Price, Anna Woodring, Dorothy McNelly, Lilly Hernandez.

Cooks work efficiently

Meals were a tasty treat for those used to institutional cooking at other boarding schools, and no let down for those having home-cooked food all their lives, either. Food was deliciously prepared to satisfy the hunger of busy and active students, and delivered to our clutching hands by some of the most cheerful and happy ladies, ever. Amid cries for peanut butter, jelly, and second helpings, the staff was always there with a smile.

Gatemen provide security

Drivers transport students

Paula Jobin, Ken Wick, Paul Whitehair and Wilfred Jobin.

Getting day students to and from school, trips for boarders into town and driving classes on field trips were invaluable duties of the bus drivers.

Fun and games unlimited

Student Activities were a special treat this year at Judson. With the companionship and cheerfulness of Mrs. Ruth Young, every event was a memorable one. Such trips as Grand Canyon, Waterskiing and Rock Concerts were especially favorites. Ruth honestly feels the year has gone by so fast, but she has enjoyed every minute of it.

Horsemanship at Judson ranked pretty high with most of the students. The competent corral staff taught us Western riding and equestrian skills.

Ceramics, Home Ec are favorites

David Land and Mrs. Sandra Groth

Not only are the students instructed in the use of the potter's wheel, but also in different hand building techniques and macrame. Mrs. Sandra Groth is new on the Judson faculty this year.

Home Ec is a learning experience. It is also a pleasurable experiment in the basics of cooking and sewing. The girls are taught menu planning and food preparation. In sewing they learn how to use patterns and to design.

Cactus records memories

Composed of eleven students with very little experience, the Cactus staff was faced with the impossible task of portraying the school year and all its memorable moments.

It was a slow start, filled with its share of mistakes and miscalculations and sometimes seemed as though the Cactus would never make it to the press.

Many hours were spent after school and on weekends fighting the never ending battle of "final deadlines". With all the time and devotion the staff put into this year's Cactus, we are happy to say "we made it!"

Keeping up on the latest Judson news, the Cougar newspaper staff reported events and daily happenings every six weeks.

These layouts were prepared in a unique and different way. Each issue contained many individual ideas and formats. Every issue the Cougar newspaper was sent to every parent or guardian to inform them of the activities and happenings on and off campus that their children were involved in.

Mrs. Sherley Ruby, director, after many weeks of many rehearsals was very pleased with the final performance.

When not busy working on a major production for the entire student body, the Drama Class maintained their proficiency and style doing improvisations and little skits. The class also learned about props, directing and make-up throughout the year. Students gained experience performing in front of an audience, and learned how to "let go."

Tennis takes upward swing

There was a girls and boys tennis team under the instruction of Phil Ormsby. Composed of enthusiastic members, the teams practiced diligently to improve their game and excercised daily to keep in good physical shape. The tennis classes were very lucky to have Mr. Ormsby as a coach. Phil has accomplished much in the tennis world. He designed and built the Palm Springs Tennis Club, and instructed tennis there, also two of his pupils became national champions; Wiley Van Horn and Joe Hunt. When Mr. Ormsby left southern California, he came to Judson and became a popular personality on campus.

Cowboys excel in riding and roping

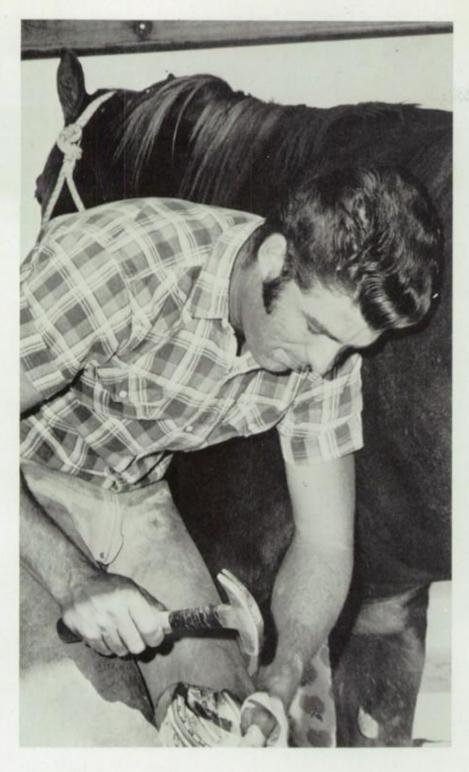

Judson, a western school, keeps with the tradition of rodeo activities by boasting a fine roping team. Over the years, a complete stock of calves and steers has been maintained for roping and team tying. Most of the 17 boys on the team ride their own horses, but there are excellent horses available at the school corral for those who do not.

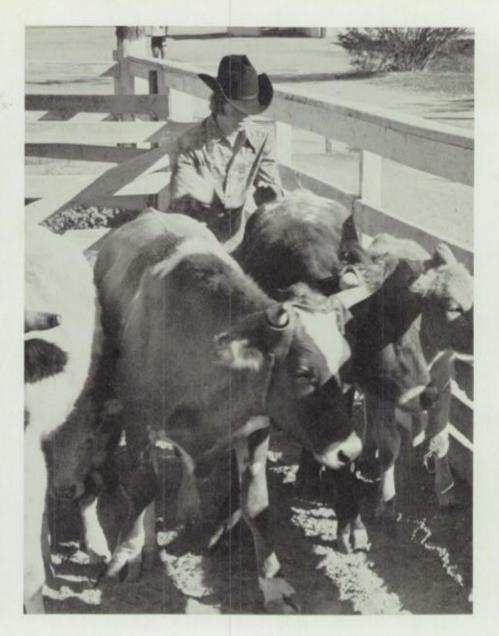

Preston Brady presides over the practices, which are in preparation for the end of the year ROPE-OFF, but leaders have been elected also: President, Tom Neiley; Vice President, Fred Slyfield; Secretary-treasurer, Stew Cellers.

The Judson Roping Team is highly competitive, and is recognized with high standing on the Arizona Rodeo Circuit.

Parada Del Sol is

Scottsdale Jaycees sponsored the well known Parada Del Sol. The parade is an annual event, having begun almost a quarter of a century ago; Judson has been actively involved since the beginning.

This year, Judson contributed both English and Western riders to participate in the traditional equestrian procession.

Judson's proud color guards carried American and the school flags.

Western riders paraded down Scottsdale Road.

Parade in the Sun

Thousands of spectators enjoyed the big event.

Preparations for the event were exciting as riders braided colored ribbons and put school color bows on their horses. The lucky animals were gently bathed and brushed and cared for with much T.L.C. Final arrangements, begun at 4:30 a.m., included polishing tack and riding gear.

One of the few groups to display a different style was the English riding team.

Equestrian team

Anyone who rode or was interested in horses was welcome to join the JETS (Judson Equestrian Team). Their activities included participation in many horse shows and banquets organized by the officers for the members. It was a familiar sight to see members of the JETS selling pretzels at juice break to raise extra funds for special Club activities.

Vaulting team is new

Judson Vaulting team was introduced to the students by Elly Trepas, the English Riding teacher. Membership was available to grade schoolers as well as high school students.

Vaulting actually means the art of gymnastics on a moving horse, usually a trot or canter.

A special device called a surcingle goes around the horse's belly and has handles which are used to maintain balance.

The team members practiced six exercises which were mandatory in competition, and the club planned competition with local teams.

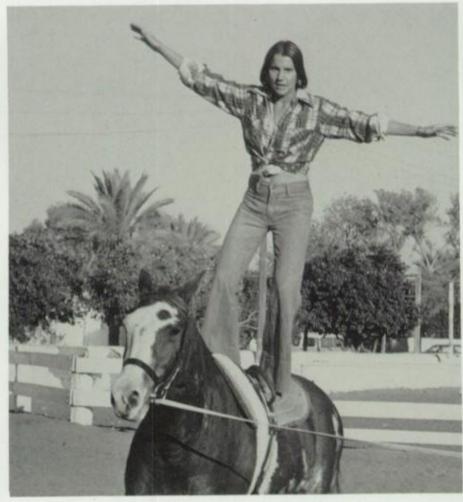

The main purpose of vaulting was to develop balance and courage in themselves and trust in their horses.

International Club

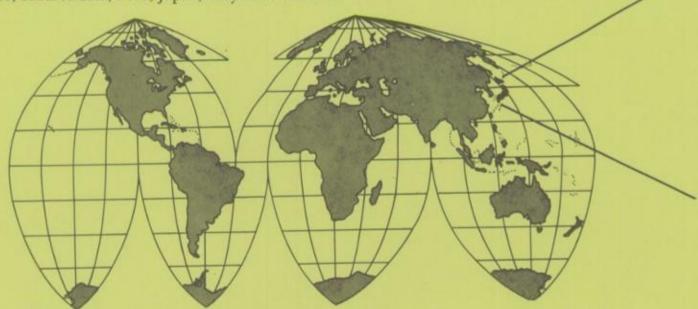

William Utterback, Germany, Pat Thumann, Texas, Charlie Beyer, New York, Nassar Akabarinegad, Iran.

Judson's International Club was formed during the school year to allow students to get the flavor of foreign countries, and to learn about different cultures. The club was a unique way for students to take advantage of the various different ways of life the foreign students have experienced. The program was organized by Larry Sullivan, Mrs. Doris Bale and Miss Peggy Dodge. Speakers were invited to Judson to meet with members, and there were numerous culture displays at A.S.U. The club consisted of members from Iran, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, Peru, Japan, Libya and different states in America. There were roughly twenty members, who decided on an informal organization without dues, but did agree on fund raising operations to help cover the cost of special outings.

The many foreign students this year were a link in the chain of life at Judson. There was a mutual benefit between the students, as the foreigners learned from us as we learned from them. Thanks to the foreign students, who made life at Judson even more interesting.

Musical program at Judson this year was full of excitement and creativity. Mrs. Larson aided her interested students in preparation for the Spring Art's Festival and "making their own kind of music." The music class had a very large enrollment, but any student who wished to join could do so. There were private teachers on hand for instruction in banjo, guitar, woodwinds, and vocals. Many students sat and listened to the musical talents, joining in and having fun, and sometimes the players were the audience.

In Memoriam

Judson was saddened by the death of Mrs. Marcia Douglas, a tiny person with a large heart. Memories of "Dougie" a beloved dorm mother, reached out to hundreds of girls for nine years. Her passing has left a void in the minds and hearts of many. She was a friend to all, and a mother to the girls who knew her. Memories of "Dougie," a beloved part of Judson, will sparkle always, like sunlight, on the dorms she loved.

New Horizons

They say there is a lost horizon waiting to be found full of beauty and splendor that few have ever found

They say in this lost horizon life is peaceful and forever and this lost horizon is still waiting to be found

So you say you want to find it and live the life you have missed where life can be forever full of all its beauty and bliss

So I say to you, my friend, this is where you are wrong there has never been a lost horizon only New Horizons how can I be wrong

In my search for the lost horizon I have only found the new full of all its excitement and pleasures many new friendships, too

So I say to you, my friend, look ahead and you will find it Life is what you make it and here is where it is found Life is here so take it then how can you ever go wrong Editors
